The Japanese Camellia has soil requirements that are similar to that of Azaleas, acidic and well drained, and are not very tolerant of salty soils. The foliage is dark glossy green with thick leathery leaves. The main attraction of Japanese Camellias is the winter flowers. The Sensation Camellia has fragrant double blooms that are pink. Camellia japonica 'Sensation' has a upright growth habit and can grow 10-12' high and has a 6-8' spread
